- Mazzini spread nationalist ideas, Cavour focused on political alliances, and Garibaldi led military campaigns to unite the states.
- By 1861, Italy became a unified kingdom, and in 1871, Rome was made the capital.

Germany:

- Before unification, Germany was a group of independent states. Otto von Bismarck used military strategy and diplomacy to unite them.
- After victories in wars against Denmark, Austria, and France, Germany unified in 1871 under the leadership of Prussia.

Q.4 How was the history of nationalism in Britain unlike the rest of Europe?

Answer: Britainâ??s nationalism was different from the rest of Europe in that:

Liberal Nationalism: It focused on political rights and democratic reforms rather than revolutionary movements.

Gradual Unification: Britain was already united by the 18th century, unlike fragmented countries like Italy and Germany.

No Major Revolutions: National unity was achieved through constitutional reforms, not revolutions.

Empire Influence: British nationalism was closely tied to the power and pride of the British Empire.

Q.5 Why did nationalist tensions emerge in the Balkans?

Answer: Nationalist tensions in the Balkans emerged due to:

External Conflicts:

- 1. Great Power Rivalry: Russia, Austria-Hungary, and other European powers competed for influence in the Balkans, intensifying nationalist movements.
- 2. Ottoman Decline: The weakening Ottoman Empire left a power vacuum, with foreign powers vying for control, adding to regional instability.

Internal Conflicts:

- 1. Failed Revolts: Uprisings against Ottoman rule by various ethnic groups, such as the Serbs and Greeks, contributed to internal conflict and nationalist struggles.
- 2. Ethnic Diversity: Different ethnic groups (Serbs, Greeks, Bulgarians, etc.) sought independence and self-rule, leading to tensions within the region.
